Boulevard de la Corniche

Extending for several kilometers, the Boulevard de la Corniche is long avenue where you can walk and enjoy the beautiful Atlantic Ocean panorama, and experience a variety of activities: cafes and restaurants, playgrounds, leisure centers and cinemas.

Habous District

Habous District was built by the French between 1918 and 1955 to create a new Medina. It looks like a traditional Moroccan city, but with a few additions: modern facilities and bigger streets. In addition, Habous District is home to various traditional markets and the Royal Palace.

Place Mohammed V

The main square of the City, Place Mohammed V has a large fountain and is surrounded by beautiful examples of French colonial architecture.

Rick's Cafe

Rick's Cafe' recreates the bar made famous by Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman in Casablanca, the 1942 film classic. Set in an old courtyard-style mansion and built against the walls of the Old Medina of Casablanca, the restaurant-piano bar is filled with architectural and decorative details reminiscent of the film: curved arches, a sculpted bar, balconies, balustrades, and beaded and stenciled brass lighting.

You can relax in the outdoor swimming pool or hammam. The Riad Fes Restaurant serves authentic Moroccan cuisine; and meals can be served in the hotel's dining room or on the rooftop terrace.

Monuments

The Hassan Tower is the most famous monument in Fes. Begun in 1195, the tower was intended to be the largest Minaret of the largest mosque in the Muslim world, but unfortunately construction was never completed. Before construction stopped, the tower reached 44 meters tall, approximately half of its intended 86 meter height. Instead of stairs, the tower is ascended by ramps. The architect of the Hassan Tower also designed the Koutoubia of Marrakech and the Giralda of Seville.

The other important monument on Hassan Tower's esplanade is the Mausoleum Mohammed V; which is a royal tomb. It houses the sarcophagus of King Mohammed V and the tombs of his sons (Prince Moulay Abdellah and King Hassan II). The mausoleum is beautiful, both outside with its white marble and pyramidal roof covered with green tiles, and inside with its Koranic calligraphy and marble columns.

The Kasbah Oudayas was built in the 12th century and housed the soldiers who went to holy war against the Christians in Spain. The houses and alleys of this old, fortified military camp have been repainted in blue and white. North of the Kasbah Oudayas is the semaphore platform that offers a panoramic view of the Beach of Rabat, the ocean and the Muslim cemetery Sidi Benachir Sale. The Kasbah Oudayas is a beautiful place to lose yourself in its alleys and admire this city within a city.

The Royal Palace or Dar al Makhzen was built in 1864 on the ruins of the former royal palace. Today, it is royal palace of the Alaouite sultan of the city of Fes and the seat of the government. While the palace is not open to the public, you are able view the imposing brass doors surrounded by zellige tilework and carved cedar wood, and view buildings that are capped with green tile roofs, vast gardens and decorated courtyards.

Day 5: Saturday April 27-Fes

- Start your city tour by visiting:
 - Bab Bou Djeloud
 - Chouara Tannery
- Lunch (Own Account)
- Continuation of the city tour
 - Madrasa Bou Inania
 - Nejjarine Fountain
- Return to the Hotel for Rest and Relaxation
- Les Jardins de Sheherazade at the Palais Sheherazade Hotel

Monuments

Walk through the door of Bab Bou Djeloud and enter the largest medina in Morocco. A UNESCO World Heritage Site, we strongly encourage you to stroll through its labyrinthine streets and take in the tanners, ceramists, and aromas of bread, copper and tea; a journey of all senses.

Chouara Tannery is the oldest (dating back to the Middle Ages) and most impressive of all tanneries. Take the opportunity to walk around the pools of dye and meet local artisans who continue this ancestral craft. For the photographer: take to the heights for a view of all the tanneries. The pools form a patchwork of bright colors.

The Nejjarine Fountain is located to the right of the entrance of Fundouk, Fes. It is a pretty zellige-decorated fountain with a carved wooden pediment. The Nejjarine Fountain is one of the most beautiful public fountains in the medina of Fes and dates back to the 17th century.

The Madrasa Bou Inania was built between 1350 and 1357 on the orders of Sultan Abu Inan. It is last madrasa—or college of Islamic studies—built by the Marinids in Fes, and is also the largest and most expensive. The only particularity of Bou Inania is its courtyard, paved with marble. A diversion of the wadi Fes was practiced; bringing water into the madrasa which served the faithful arriving on foot to practice their ablutions before praying.

Palais Sheherazade

Located within the Palais Sheherazade, Les Jardins de Sheherazade offers a unique gastronomic Moroccan table. The restaurant welcomes you into a luxurious environment and allows you to discover the inventive and ancestral cuisine of Fes, the cultural and gastronomic capital of Morocco. The menu includes classic Moroccan dishes as well as inventions from the Palais Sheherazade that are inspired by historical books from century old thinkers. You will enjoy your meal in the open sky patio, surrounded by the garden with century-old palms and beautiful vegetation. Les Jardins de Sheherazade's zellige columns adorned with sculpted plaster, white marble fountain, copper chandeliers and giant vegetation wall with intoxicating aromas will transport you centuries away to the era of 1001 nights.

Day 6: Sunday April 28-Fes/Marrakech

Palais Aziza & Spa

While conveniently close to the heart of Marrakech, Palais Aziza & Spa is discreetly nestled away in the exclusive Palm Grove "La Palmerie", and is an elegant and serene haven of luxury and simplicity.

Monuments

Located in Marrakech's Djemaa el Fna Square, the Koutoubia Mosque is a landmark and the largest mosque in Marrakech. The meaning of 'mosque' is place where one bows down in a prayer. Consequently, a mosque is the center of religious life in Islam. Built during the Hispano-Moresque period, which is known for its simple, yet masterful craftsmanship and luxury, the Koutoubia Mosque is said to be the most beautiful and proportioned mosque in the world.

Jamaa el Fna is a large public square and marketplace in Marrakech's medina quarter (old city). It remains the main square of Marrakech, filled with merchants and hawkers, and is known for its traditional activities by storytellers, musicians and performers. Jamaa el Fna is magical and a destination for all. It opens in early morning, and activities and performances continue until late evening. Jamaa el Fna Square is listed on the Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage.

Dinner At Café Arabe

Located in the medina of Marrakech, The Cafe' Arabe offers Italian and Moroccan cuisine, served in the restaurant's courtyard or on the terrace. You will dine in a traditional, yet contemporary environment, and be immersed into a magical, enchanting and charming atmosphere.

Afterwards, you will have a chance to experience the wonderful panoramas of the waterfalls in Setti Fatma and enjoy a hike through the village in Ourika Valley that is carved into the foothills of the Atlas Mountains. Monuments

The Jardin Majorelle in Marrakech is one of the most visited sites in Morocco. It took French painter Jacques Majorelle 40 years of passion and dedication to create this enchanting garden in the heart of the “Ochre City”, and was his residence until the 1950s. In the 1980s, the property was purchased by fashion designers Yves Saint Laurent and Pierre Berge’ who worked to restore it. Today the garden and villa complex (Villa Oasis) is open to the public. As you walk along the garden’s shady lanes in the midst of trees and exotic plants, you will pass burbling streams and pools filled with water lilies and lotus flowers; you will hear rustling leaves and chirping birds; and you will smell sugared fragrances.

The Villa Oasis currently houses the Islamic Art Museum of Marrakech, the Berber Museum and the recently opened (October 2017) Musee Yves Saint Laurent. The Musee Yves Saint Laurent is a 43,000 square foot building adjacent to the Jardin Majorelle, and features Moroccan influences with terrazzo and intricate brickwork making up its facade. The interior is characterized by both curving and straight volumes, which bely the colorful archives of fashions and sketches on display. In addition to permanent and temporary exhibition space, the Musee Yves Saint Laurent encompasses a 140 seat auditorium, boutique, bookshop, cafe-restaurant and research library comprising 5,000 volumes.

The Saadian Tombs, which are located in the Almoahidi Kasbah in Marrakech, were constructed during the reign of Sultan Ahmad al-Mansur in the late 16th century. Hidden from the world for approximately 200 years, the tombs were discovered in 1917 and renovated by the Beaux-arts service. Housing two lavish mausoleums with approximately 60 tombs, including those of Ahmad al-Mansur and his family, and over 100 more in the beautiful gardens, the Saadian Tombs are an architectural masterpiece and one of the most elaborate and best preserved resting places in Morocco today. As a result of the beauty of their decoration, the tombs are a major tourist attraction.
